There are several companies in county Kildare working to turn waste into energy or new products

Straw Chip Ltd is a family farm run operation based in Kildare that has been engaged in the tillage sector for many years, supplying straw. They have developed a product that takes the dust particles and waste residues of straw to bind them together into a highly absorbent product that can be used for bedding and feeding of animals.

Green Generation is a company based in Kildare that uses anaerobic digestion to convert agricultural and food waste to renewable energy

Bord na Móna

Bord na Móna Ireland is a landfill gas utilisation plant at Drehid which uses methane gas generated during the decomposition of waste within the fully lined landfill as fuel to generate electricity. They also produce biomass.
